

The lake reflects the distant golden hues, while the colorful leaves craft a unique poetic charm on a warm Sunday afternoon at the Shigangmengtang Leisure Park in Jiading New City. — Li Qi

Embracing seasonal splendor

As winter deepens, Jiading New City transforms into a painted masterpiece. The woodlands become a vibrant tapestry of deep greens, golds and oranges. In Qiuxiapu Garden, ancient trees and pavilions abound. Maple leaves dance like flames, casting a pinkish glow, while golden ginkgo trees stand resplendent. For a touch of seasonal spirit, visit the Bodhi Temple, home to six ginkgo trees over 300 years old.

Designated as No. 0001 ancient tree in Shanghai, the ginkgo tree in Jiading's Anting Town is over 1,200 years old. — Dai Yixin

Surrounded by six ginkgo trees, the Bodhi Temple on Anting Old Street envelops visitors in its tranquil and peaceful embrace.
— Teng Junma

Qiuxiapu Garden hosts over 150 maple trees, with the peak viewing period extending until the end of this month. — Dai Yixin