

Gather around the stove to brew tea

This winter, nothing brings more peace and warmth to the heart than gathering around a stove to brew tea. In Jiading, several teahouses and serene spots offer the perfect setting for this cozy ritual. Let's explore these locations with Yao Yiyi, Jin Peifeng and Yang Di, as they guide us through the best places to enjoy high-quality teas and experience the tranquil ambiance of winter afternoons.

Chuqidi

Nestled in Anting Old Street, Chuqidi lives up to its name as a relaxed and cozy spot where you can unwind. The venue offers tea, wine, food and music. The first floor features a bar and a large screen, making it ideal for hosting small parties. Upstairs, there's a terrace equipped with tents, rattan chairs and lush greenery.

In your free time, gather family and friends around the fire, brew a pot of tea, and roast some sweet potatoes, longans or oranges. As the fragrance gently fills the air, enjoy the scenic views of the old street, chat about life, and capture memories.

During the day, bask in the sunlight, and as night falls, light up the camping lamps to elevate the ambiance.

Yue'erju

The aroma of tea knows no bounds, even in the quietest corners. Tucked away on Xinyuan Road in Anting Town, Yue'erju, an elegant and tranquil teahouse, offers a serene retreat amidst the bustling city. The interior features rustic decor with wooden tables and chairs, walls adorned with teapots and ceramic jars, as well as a peaceful atmosphere perfect for tea appreciation.

At the heart of it all is a round table and a charcoal stove. Tea is brewed with meticulous care, starting with the addition of tea leaves, followed by pear slices and dried tangerine peel, allowing the flavors to meld slowly. The resulting infusion is richly aromatic, with a delicate hint of sweetness.

On a lazy winter afternoon, immerse yourself in the charm of traditional tea culture.
